

Library Receives $69K Grant to Implement Learning Commons

In June, 2006, the Mother Theresa Hackelmeier Memorial Library at Marian College (Indianapolis) received a generous $69,000 grant from the Indianapolis Foundation Library Fund, a Central Indiana Community Foundation affiliate, for the creation of a Learning Commons.

The Hackelmeier Learning Commons is a set of unique spaces designed to facilitate active, collaborative research by students and faculty. By creating a model for interdisciplinary thinking, learning and resource sharing in a comfortable, collegiate atmosphere, Marian will foster a stronger connection between the classroom and the library, nurturing a strong bond between academics and library resources while offering greater opportunities for active learning.

For more information about the Mother Theresa Hackelmeier Memorial Library, visit www.marian.edu/Library.asp

[Submitted by Kelley Griffith, Library Director on 9-1-2006]